

TEL AVIV

Nachmani 9

OCCUPIED SINCE 2019

THE PROJECT

Nachmani 9 occupies a corner site in the heart of Tel Aviv, and the design leans into that exposure rather than softening it: a white cube cut through with dramatic black-framed openings and cantilevered balconies, visible from both streets it fronts.

Twenty-three apartments across seven floors, each with the same clarity of material – white render, black steel, glass – carried down to the last detail.

Delivered under Tama 38/2 – Israel’s urban renewal framework for demolishing and rebuilding older structures – the building sold out ahead of completion and has been occupied since 2019, a result the design team attributes to restraint as much as ambition: nothing was added to the facade that didn’t need to be there.

DESIGN & CRAFTSMANSHIP

Designed by Alon Ben Nun and developed in partnership with Beita – a single material idea, white volume against black openings, carried without compromise from massing to detail.
